FAMOUS JEWELS ARE AGAIN IN LIMELIGHT

Mentschikoff Gems Cause of Dispute Between Burke and Receiver.

PRESCOTT, March 12.—This is the story of still another chapter in the struggle to sell the Mentschikoff jewels. Receiver Keohane states that on January 2 he offered them for sale, and refused the bid of R. A. Street, who offered $66, which he considered too low, and that he declared the sale off. He further states that he re-advertised the jewels and that on January 16 Dennis Burke bid $900 for them, offering the money, but that he refused the $900, informing said Burke that he could not deliver up the jewels until the district court had confirmed the sale, and that Burke thereupon said something about the possibility of the stones being "switched" if not delivered to him then and there. Receiver Keohane also swears that on February 10 the court confirmed the sale and that the next day he offered the jewels to Burke, who declined to take them and pay over the $900 he had previously bid. He thereupon held a third sale, which took place February 24, at which time W. J. Reilly bid $650. The sale to Reilly was confirmed later by the court, and the jewels were delivered over to the successful bidder.

Receiver Keohane also stated in his answer that he believes Burke is responsible in law to the receiver for the difference between the $900 bid by Burke and the $650 he eventually received for the jewels, and he asks that he be instructed by the court to bring suit against Burke for this difference of $250. In answer to the allegation that he has failed to pay to the receiver the proceeds of the sale, the receiver states that so far he has received but $325 from Burke, but that the remainder is to be paid shortly, and that for this reason he has been unable to divide the $650.

Continuing Receiver Keohane denies he is in collusion with Reilly or any one else to defraud Burke, or that he is needlessly squandering any Burke & Hickey money by advertising in the Journal-Miner. He also denies that he is prejudiced against Burke, and asks that he be given reasonable time to file his account of receipts, after which he states he will be only too glad to be released as receiver. As yet the court has not set a date for the hearing on Mr. Burke's complaint against Receiver Keohane.

TWO DEAD IN RUNAWAY

HILLSBORO, N. M., March 19.—Jose Rivera and Mrs. Juanita Rivera de Morales, brother and sister of Judge Tomas Rivera of this place, died as the result of a frightful runaway accident which occurred on the road between Las Polomas and Hillsboro.

With Miss Josefa Rivera, the two were driving down the "White Hill" when the harness broke and the team bolted, completely wrecking the vehicle at the bottom of the hill and throwing the occupants violently out. Mrs. Morales had her jaw and left forearm broken and sustained internal injuries while Mr. Rivera's skull was fractured and he was also injured internally. Both lingered for a day or so before death relieved their sufferings. Miss Rivera was only slightly injured.

RAWHIDE IS BOOM CAMP OF NEVADA NOW

Hirschfeld On Visit to Former Home In Phoenix Tells of Action of Mine Boomers of the North.

PHOENIX, March 19.—G. H. Hirschfeld returned yesterday from Nevada after a sojourn of several months in the habitat of the festive mining boom, although most of his time has been spent in Reno, which is somewhat out of the zone of the boom, but is the home of many of the boomers. Reno, he says, is dull compared to the days preceding the financial stringency, though he believes it will be better later on, in fact is better now than it was a short time back. Reno, he says, is more conservative, being a distributing and outfitting point rather than a mining section, and will always have a future as one of the chief cities of the state. He is still in business there and expects to return in about a month after attending to his business affairs here.

Asked concerning the members of the Arizona colony in that section he had nothing startling to report concerning any of them. W. M. Mayers is prospering, George Lewis is also there, having returned from Carson, where he was in business for a time. The gambling business throughout the state is much smaller than a year ago, owing chiefly to the financial stringency. The state's chief industry is its mining stock speculation, which is to a large extent, another sort of gambling. The wealthy operators who also loved to flirt with fortune over the table, when the panic came, preferred to put their money into their own games as it were, partly to save them, and partly because the fluctuating prices made better opportunities for mining speculation by the more frequent offering of what the speculators would consider snags. Rawhide camp is the big thing in Nevada now, and attracts all the new comers who enter the state in search of fortune. Those who are located of fortune. Those who are located of fortune. Those who are located of fortune.

Mr. Hirschfeld has not visited Rawhide, but he has kept in close touch with events there as the floating army is going and coming all the time through Reno. The shortest and best route is via Tonopah & Goldfield railroads from either south or north to the station of Schurz and thence thirty miles in an hour and a half by automobile to Rawhide. The fare from Reno to Rawhide is $16. The country is full of hot air and high grade, but is full of hot air and high grade, but is full of hot air and high grade.

The town was only laid out last September and now has a population of at least 5,000, many of the people living in tents, even though the weather has been severe. An illustration of the demand for houses is shown by the fact that a contractor, Tex Rickard, the notable prize fight promoter, let a contract for a frame structure 50x125 feet in size, to be finished and painted, ready for occupancy in fifteen days. The carpenters might not sleep on the job, he offered them $200 per day for every day clipped off the contract time. The house was completed in ten days, and the workmen divided up $1,000 prize money among them.

TOBACCO MAGNATE ON WAY TO CALIFORNIA

Head of Trust Intends to Spend Vacation Recuperating on the Coast.

James B. Duke, the man who makes the "makin's," passed through El Paso enroute to California, where he expects to spend a month, and a large bunch of money that he has made off of the tobacco trade that have made him rich and famous, says the El Paso Herald. Every time the smoking public takes a drag at its favorite brand of tobacco, either in pipe or cigarette, James B. gets the benefit in good hard money, for he practically controls the tobacco of the world, including the genuine Turkish cigarettes that smell like a section of the ropes made in North Carolina and consumed by pin-headed boys with more money than brains the world over.

If there is a spot in the world where this man James B. has not touched with his magic wand and spoiled an ordinary landscape or an artistic view with a huge bull in the foreground and the appeal to the passer-by to smoke Bull Durham, occupying the remainder of the space, it is because that particular place is not on the map from which the advertising managers of the tobacco king plan the campaign of publicity.

James Duke is the hide, horns, hoofs, and bellow of the tobacco trust which has as sure a grip upon the production and sale of the weed as our uncle J. D. has on the oil barrel. His home is at Somerville, New York, but he has an office in Fifth avenue in New York from which he directs the destinies of the following companies: American Tobacco company, Continental Tobacco company, Consolidated Tobacco company, the British-American Tobacco company, American Snuff company, American Cigar company, Harry Wadsworth Tobacco company, Havana American company, Havana Commercial com-

SHERIFF LOOKING FOR REALTY AGENT

Phillipson Leaves Globe For Los Angeles—Not Been Heard From Since.

GLOBE, March 19.—It was just learned yesterday the cause of the continued absence from the city of Sheriff J. H. Thompson, who left here about two weeks ago to take an insane man to the territorial asylum at Phoenix. At present, the sheriff is somewhere in Southern California on a still hunt and his quarry is no other than J. C. Phillipson, quondam general manager of the Consolidated Realty company, who made a silent getaway from Globe about a month ago, leaving a long list of creditors and victims of his alleged crookedness.

A warrant was issued by Judge Hinson Thomas on February 28 last, the day before Sheriff Thompson's departure, for the arrest of Phillipson on a charge of embezzlement. The complaint was made by District Attorney L. L. Henry and in it Phillipson is accused of feloniously embezzling $500 which amount was turned over to him by the Phoenix Fire Insurance company. The amount was to have been paid to Thomas Dancy of Globe and Phillipson is charged with applying the money to his own use.

When Phillipson was last heard of he was in Los Angeles, and had signified his intention of going to San Diego from there. It is believed here that he has left for foreign shores.

pany, Havana Tobacco company, Imperial Tobacco company of London. He is interested in a number of other concerns including the Motion Trust company and National Bank of Commerce of New York, of which he is managing director, also a few other tobacco companies that form the tobacco trust and have been taken in since the publication of this year's World almanac.

RAILROAD MAN HAS VERY PECULIAR DUTY

Requested By Close Friend to Celebrate After Death of the Latter.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—"I am confident few railroad men have so singular a charge as myself," remarked E. S. Jewett of the passenger department of the Missouri Pacific, who is on a visit to the city. "You all know Henry Garland, who was for many years general agent of the Wabash in Kansas City. Garland, as you are probably aware, has long since retired from railroad work and is living quietly at the Baltimore hotel in Kansas City. He is thorough in every particular, and some time ago called on me and asked me to put a package of papers in my safe."

"These papers concern my funeral arrangements," he said. "I have an order from the railroad company to carry my body to St. Louis, a receipt from an undertaking company to prepare my body for the journey, another from a crematory for the disposal of my remains, one from an expressman in St. Louis, who is to take my body to the cemetery. The rascal wanted $12 for the job, but I made him come down to $8. Another from the Kansas City expressman who is to take my body to the depot. You are to ride on the wagon, and, mind you, if the coffin is put in a hearse I will get up and knock you off the box. After all expenses are paid there will be some $300 or $350 left, and you are to get the boys together that night and give them a spread at Tony Faust's. I have made arrangements with him for the spread. Mind you, there is to be no dull talk at that banquet. Every one must be as jolly as possible."

"When Garland heard I was coming out here for a trip he called on me and reiterated his instructions. He is well and hearty and I hope it will be many years before, I am called upon to fulfill my promise."

"BAD HOMBRE" NOW CHARGED WITH MURDER

Alleged To Have Murdered
Man in Cold Blood For Trivial Reason—Arrested For Murder Before.

EL PASO, March 19.—Eustacio Legarda, alleged murderer and fugitive from justice, who shot and fatally wounded Dolores Legarda, a Mexican merchant, at the corner of Ninth and Stanton streets last night at 6 o'clock, who died shortly after midnight this morning at Hotel Dieu, was captured this morning shortly after 7 o'clock at the home of Gil Berru, 811 South Florence street, and is now in the city jail charged with murder.

Legarda, the merchant, who also runs a wood yard, had just returned from making a delivery, and stepped from his wagon to the walk in front of the store when he was approached by Eustacio Legarda. Following a brief conversation, Legarda is said to have drawn his revolver and fired twice at Dolores. One bullet entered the left eye and the merchant fell unconscious.

Legarda was recently arrested here on the charge of carrying a pistol and was recognized by Detective Herold as the man whom he arrested here in El Paso in 1897 for a murder which he was alleged to have committed in New Mexico. Legarda was taken to Las Cruces by Sheriff Lucero, last week, but was turned loose at that place because, it is said, witnesses could not be secured to testify against him on the charge of having broken

Detective Herold says Legarda's right name is Manuel Ribar and also says that Legarda admitted it this morning while he was being taken to the police station.

It is said that Legarda shot Dolores because Legarda thought he was responsible for his arrest here recently on the charge of carrying a pistol.

Legarda, the dead man, was prominent in Mexican circles and besides owning a grocery store and wood yard at Stanton and Ninth streets, he also had a ranch up the valley, and was worth considerable money, and was a good citizen.

LABOR HEADS IN CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, D. C. March 18.—In response to the recent call of President Samuel Gompers a large number of labor leaders of national prominence assembled in conference at the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor here today to discuss and take action in regard to the recent decisions of the United States supreme court concerning labor.

Some of the decisions recently handed down by the supreme tribunal have dealt the hardest blows to organized labor in the history of the United States. One of the most important of these decisions was that which declared illegal the form of boycott practiced by the labor organizations against alleged unfair employers. Another decision of equal or even greater importance was that delivered by the supreme court in the so-called "hatters' case" in which it was decided that a labor organization is financially responsible for damage suffered by an employer through a boycott instituted by a labor organization.

As there is no appeal from the decision of the supreme court the labor leaders are at sea as to what course to pursue in the matter. It is probable, however, that some form of legislative relief will be sought at the hands of congress.
